Eemax® Celebrates National Plumbers Day

WATERBURY, CT: April 21, 2021, Eemax, Inc.

Eemax, a leader in the evolution of hot water, celebrates the plumbing professionals that serve our communities and provide us with clean running water—keeping us clean and healthy—even in this time of historical crisis created by COVID-19. On April 25, the entire country observes National Plumbers Day to give thanks to the men and women who provide these essential services that are often taken for granted. Eemax extends our special thanks in observance of National Plumbers Day with the launch of a new web page containing valuable tools for current and future plumbers, including training videos, education tracks, and how-to manuals.

Incredibly, plumbing has been a vital part of public health and safety for roughly 4,000 years, dating back to ancient Rome! It is believed by health experts that the delivery of clean drinking water and removal of waste has had a greater impact on general health and life expectancy than any medical advancement. By the 1840s, indoor plumbing could be found in most homes across the United States. Today, the average American household will use more than 300 gallons of water per day!

Please take a moment on April 25, 2021, and join Eemax in thanking your local plumbing professional. Recognition and celebration of their work is well deserved!
